One MIZUHO New Frontier Plan
Stepping up to the Next Challenge

Mizuho Financial Group (Mizuho) was established ahead of other financial groups under a financial holding company structure in September 2000. Since an internal reorganization in April 2002, it has strived to enhance its profitability by providing customers with the highest quality financial services through mutual cooperation among its legally separate group companies based on customer segments and functions centered on the holding company.

By promoting Mizuho's Transformation Program, which was formulated in May 2010, Mizuho has implemented initiatives including strengthening in business areas where the group has competitive advantages, improving financial strength and asset efficiency, and advancing organizational structure and business infrastructure. Mizuho launched its substantive one bank structure in April 2012 and has taken actions to realize early synergy benefits ahead of the merger of Mizuho Bank, Ltd. (President & CEO, Mr. Takashi Tsukamoto) (MHBK) and Mizuho Corporate Bank, Ltd. (President & CEO, Mr. Yasuhiro Sato) (MHCB), which is scheduled for July 2013.

By completing a single bank and single securities structure through the merger of its securities subsidiaries in January 2013 and the merger of MHBK and MHCB, Mizuho will further strengthen group cooperation among banking, trust banking, securities and other business areas. As well as aiming to maximize group profitability, this will enable Mizuho to provide a wide range of seamless financial services to its customers in a direct and timely manner.

Based on the benefits and challenges emerging through these actions and in response to structural and regulatory changes in the economy and society in both Japan and overseas, Mizuho Financial Group, Inc. (President & CEO, Mr. Yasuhiro Sato) (MHFG) has formulated a new medium-term business plan for the three years from fiscal year 2013. This proactive business plan has been named the "One MIZUHO New Frontier Plan - Stepping up to the Next Challenge -," and it aims to launch the new Mizuho toward the "new frontier" of the next generation of finance.

Mizuho will (i) move to a new, advanced group management structure, which includes the single bank and single securities structure, (ii) develop a new corporate identity as part of its initiatives to form a common corporate culture throughout the group, and (iii) position the One MIZUHO New Frontier Plan as one of the three pillars of its new group strategy. By doing this, we will further advance our business model toward the new frontier of finance.

In the spirit of One MIZUHO, we strongly recognize our social responsibility and the importance of our identity as Mizuho. By making steady progress against our new group strategy, we will further improve customer convenience and aim to strengthen group governance and improve group management efficiency. We will also aim to achieve sustainable and stable growth together with our customers and to be a unified financial group that contributes to the sound development of the economy and society both in Japan and around the world.

Please refer to the attached documents for more details.

Structure to Promote and Achieve the Medium-term Business Plan
Mizuho will establish the structures set out below to steadily promote and work toward achieving the medium-term business plan. The purpose of these structures is to follow up on implementation of the plan, respond to various themes that contribute to business strategy promotion and strengthening of governance, and strengthen actions toward launching new businesses.

- New group strategy conferences of MHFG to follow up on implementation of the medium-term business plan and deliberate on important matters in terms of group business strategy. (Further details below.)
- Working groups within the business policy committees of MHFG or group bank to conduct focused investigations on topics including the risks involved in shares held for policy purposes, risks related to rising long-term interest rates, and further enhancement of group compliance structures.

[Business Management, Management Foundations, etc.]

Strengthen stable financial foundations based on abundant liquidity and appropriate capital levels.

Establish the optimal management foundations (human resources and business infrastructure) to support business strategy.

Further strengthen proactive governance and risk management.

Embed the new Mizuho corporate identity toward forming a common culture throughout the group and take actions toward being the best financial services provider.
Four project teams within MHFG related to themes including next-generation retail banking and next-generation industry development to contribute to the recovery and ongoing growth of the Japanese economy, and growth in Asia and its associated effects on Japan's economic development.

II. Advanced Group Management Structure

Mizuho intends to build the most effective and advanced group management structure. This will include moving to a single bank and single securities structure that aims to promote timely and unified group strategic planning under the strong governance of the holding company as well as taking advantage of the characteristics and competitiveness of being the only Japanese banking group that holds its own bank, trust bank and securities company. It will also include moving to a new group capital structure and new group operational structure and the strengthening of group governance.

As set forth in the news release titled “Review of Group Capital Structure and Transformation into New Group Management Structure” dated December 21, 2012, Mizuho is planning to move to a new group capital structure during the first half of fiscal year 2013, on the assumption that we obtain the necessary approvals from regulatory authorities in Japan and overseas. The new group capital structure will place banking, trust banking, securities and other major group companies under the direct control of the holding company, and it will involve changing Mizuho Securities Co., Ltd. (President & CEO, Mr. Hiroshi Motoyama) (MHSC), which is currently a consolidated subsidiary, into a directly-held subsidiary of MHFG.

1. Strengthening Governance to Support the Unified Group Strategy

We will implement the following initiatives with the aim of strengthening group governance to support the unified group strategy under the new group operational structure:

- As set forth in the news release titled “Transformation into ‘Substantive One Bank’ Structure” dated January 20, 2012, executive officers in charge of corporate planning and management at MHFG have been serving three-way concurrent positions at MHFG, MHBK, and MHCB, as well as serving concurrent positions, in principle, at Mizuho Trust and Banking Co., Ltd. (President & CEO, Mr. Takashi Nonaka) (MHTB). In addition to this, in principle, these executive officers will also serve concurrent positions at MHSC from April 1, 2013.

- Together with the concurrent positions listed above, we will clarify the positioning of group chief officers in the corporate planning and management functions at MHFG. (Positions such as CSO, CFO, CRO, and CCO.)

2. New Group Operational Structure

As shown below, moving to this new group operational structure will enable MHFG to determine strategy and initiatives and formulate business plans corresponding to each unit responsible for business strategy promotion across group-wide banking, trust banking, securities and other business areas.

- MHFG will establish ten business units and head-office coordination divisions to determine strategy and initiatives across group-wide banking, trust banking, securities and other business areas based on the ten business units across MHBK and MHCB under the current substantive one bank structure.

- MHFG will establish five group strategy conferences to deliberate on important matters in terms of group business strategy among the multiple relationship management units and products units that relate to similar customer attributes.
3. Organizational Structure of the Holding Company
We will change the organizational structure of MHFG based on the move to the new group operational structure.

4. Organizational Structure of the New Mizuho Bank
We will establish an organizational structure for the new Mizuho Bank based on the same structure we are using under the current substantive one bank structure across MHBK and MHCB, which includes head-office corporate planning and management groups and relationship management, products and markets units.

III. New Mizuho Corporate Identity

Establish relevant working groups under the Business Policy Committees at MHFG and the new MHBK for the purpose of specialized and intensive studies on important themes.
Conversion to a new group operational structure to promote unified group strategy

- MHFG will perform strategic planning promotion across group-wide banking, trust banking, securities and other business areas for each of the ten business units and conduct more timely and unified strategy development and even better organized and consistent allocation of resources throughout the group.
- MHFG will determine (1) overall group strategy and (2) segment strategy across the group, and each entity will determine (3) entity level plans in accordance with MHFG strategy.

Operational Structures for Promoting Unified Group Strategy

New Group Operational Structure

- (1) Overall group strategy and planning (broad strategic framework common for all entities)
- (2) Cross-group strategy/initiatives/planning for each customer and product segment
- (3) Entity-level strategy/initiatives/planning

!Diagram showing the new group operational structure

In principle, group companies other than the above belong to each segment depending on the characteristics of their businesses.
We will establish ten new business units within MHFG corresponding to each unit responsible for business strategy promotion.

We will also establish five group strategy conferences within MHFG as forums to comprehensively deliberate on important matters in terms of group business strategy among the relationship management units and products units that relate to similar customer attributes.

Note: Black boxes are newly established in relation to group strategies.
